QUOTE OF THE MONTH

Senator Ted Cruz:

"The FCC's decision to fund children's unsupervised access to social media on bus rides to and from school is both dangerous and unlawful. I'm glad to support other concerned parents in opposing this reckless rule, and I thank my colleagues for joining me in our efforts to keep kids safe."

Access for People with Disabilities 4.8.2024

[Updated 4.25.2024]

The Attorney General has signed a final rule under Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), which applies to State and local government entities, to improve web and mobile application (app) access for people with disabilities. The rule clarifies how State and local governments can meet their existing ADA obligations as many of their activities move to the digital space. This rule will ensure that people with disabilities can better access important programs and activities like health care, transportation information, and education, through web content and mobile apps. The Department will send the final rule to the Federal Register for publication.

When before a judge, Steven Thomas read ICNIRP guidelines paragraphs stating that, "there are effects to pacemakers and metal implants." The defense then read out a UKHSA paragraph, "there are no health effects from 5G" and claimed UKHSA would have reported if there was a concern arising from this metal implant/pacemaker interaction with 5G to take into account. The defense told the judge, "There would be chaos if planning authorities accepted that they had to take this into account" which rather clarified why they don't want to open the door to admitting that there are unacknowledged risks.
